ABSTRACT

Venice is in the south of Milan and Florence in Italy. There is a lot of water in and around this city. When the sea has a high tide, all the building roots are covered by water, which is around 20-40 centimeters deep. A lot of tourists visit this city. City of Venice has narrow streets. There is no car and everyone needs to walk. The city is very small. It is hardly to see the street name post on the intersection of the streets. Although this city is a famous tour destination, there is no street map given to tourists. Furthermore, there is no street number engraved or shown on the dwellings too. Tourists need to rely on the posted arrow signs and follow them to the train station or any other side seen attractions. The building in this city is old and they are around 100 years or more. Most of them are one, two, or three floor buildings and they are brick constructions. The hotel and living cost are not expensive.

Keywords: Venice, water city, and tour destination.
